There's more to poker than cards and chips.

Camelot Billiards FS Series Pool Tables

A poker player who shoots stick? Imagine that! Well, they are out there and they might show an interest in Camelot Billiards' FS custom series pool tables. The 1.5-inch thick oak cabinetry shows off beautiful carvings while exceeding the lofty standards set by the Billiards Congress of America. With an optional integrated four-point speaker system and LCD lights around the perimeter, you won't need to play pool to enjoy this table. $1,249-$4,000 • calspas.com/billiards

DB Digital Dealer Button

Hosting a poker tourney but not sure how to keep track of the blinds? You could keep track of the time on your watch, but people tend to get distracted for hours at a time during tournaments, so that might not work so well. You could instead pick up the new DB digital dealer button. Set the time quickly and easily and you're on your way. The generously-proportioned button provides a one-minute warning, auto shut-off, and a tamper-proof design. $19.95 • dbdealer.com

Creative Labs

ZEN M

When some punk across the felt is doing his best Hellmuth impression and hassling you mercilessly, just turn on Creative Labs' Zen M. This full-featured WMA/MP3 player doubles as a media device, playing video on its 235,000-color screen. With an impressive four hours of battery life for watching video and 12 hours for playing music, the world around you will no doubt slowly fade into obscurity. Whether you're playing in a World Poker Tour tournament or watching WPT highlights on the Zen's display, you can't afford to be without this player.

John Elway Collection Gaming Table

Just because you won't ever play poker with John Elway doesn't mean you can't play at his table. The John Elway Collection from Bassett offers an elegant alternative for your home game. The oak gaming table is built more solidly than most of the toothy Hall-of-Fame quarterback's opponents. It's furnished with special Elway chips and cards, and comes equipped with all the home-game standards, such as cup holders, felt interior, and a removable top lined with veneer on one side and decorative leather on the other. $849 • bassettfurniture.com
